Michael Mastro is an award-winning designer, president of Global Construction, and expert on the art and science of Vastu Shastra. Renowned spiritual teacher, Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, asked Michael, a meditator for over 35 years, to design spiritual centers worldwide in the late 1970's. He then studied the principles of Vastu Shastra, the ancient Vedic system of placement believed to precede and possibly form the basis of the Chinese art of Feng Shui, and applied them to building living environments in harmony with nature. In the process, he became the leading Western expert on the art and science of Vastu Shastra. Michael's company built the first Microsoft office building with the orientation and placement designed according to Vastu Shastra as well as several buildings for Boeing. He has built in excess of twenty million square feet of commercial office space and over fifteen thousand residential properties.

Through the Mastros' international company, Vastu Creations, they consult with businesses, institutions and individuals to increase success, enhance health and productivity, and improve relations through reducing environmental stress.
